FOREWORD

This booklet is a listing of the Asian and Pacific American bilingual programs in the United States. It is inclusive of federal, state and local funded programs. Information was gleaned both from federal and state directories of bilingual projects and from the Centers' direct contact with project staff around the country. The list attempts to be exhaustive and accurate; however, the Centers solicit any additional data that can be provided.

The directory is divided into five sections:

1. Basic Education Programs
2. ESEA Title VII Network Centers
3. ESEA Title VII Fellowship Programs
4. ESEA Title VII Training Grants
5. National Origin Desegregation Assistance Centers

Each Section is further subdivided by states and then by cities.

Basic Education Programs

Due to the diversity of school district organizational structures and types of project administration required by different funding sources, it was difficult to list the basic education programs with any reliable and uniform format. However, in general the following rule of thumb was applied.

First, the name, address and telephone number of the district are given. Then the schools within the program are listed. The language(s) and grade level(s) served are then cited; and in most cases, telephone number of the program contact person is listed. It should be noted, however, that some programs may have both a districtwide administrator and a school site administrator. Similarly, several programs may exist within a city which are unrelated to others. Finally, a combination of the above is not uncommon. The program funding source(s), the program model(s) and the number of students served are displayed. Some categories for the program may not be complete due to the unavailability of the data during the information gathering time period.

ESEA Title VII Network Centers

This section is divided into three categories. The Dissemination and Assessment Centers, with responsibility for the publication of Asian and Pacific bilingual materials, are listed first. Then, the Bilingual Education Service Centers, which service the Asian and Pacific languages within their regions, are included. Finally, the Materials Development Centers, which produce Asian and Pacific curricula, are given last. For a full listing of all the centers in the national network, write to the National Clearinghouse for Bilingual Education.

ESEA Title VII Fellowship Program

Institutions of higher education which are engaged in MA/EdD/PhD bilingual fellowship programs with an emphasis on Asian and Pacific languages are included in this section. The names of the institution, address, telephone number, director, languages in the program, degree awarded and the number of fellowships are listed.

ESEA Title VII Training Grants

The training grants are organized by state and city. Each grant is listed along with institution name, address, telephone number, contact person, languages served and activities.

National Origin Desegregation Assistance Centers (NODAC)

The National Origin Desegregation Assistance Centers, funded under Title IV of the Civil Rights Act, U. S. Office of Education, are listed by service regions and states where national origin desegregation assistance is provided. Technical assistance is available upon request and is offered to local education agencies, state departments of education or other governmental units legally responsible for operating local education agencies.
